Conclusion:

The device I would buy is definitely a Samsung Galaxy S20. It seems to have more than all the features and capabilities I would like to use. It comes in many exciting colors, which I find fun. It also comes with so many extra functions. This could take me a bit to get used to, however I'm always willing to learn.

It does need a data plan to use all of these fancy functions. What I found interesting, was that it had triple cameras and was 5G compatible. Neither of the other two phones had this capability. For extra accessories I would buy separate are the ear buds. They are really neat because they are wireless. I think at this point I'm sold on this phone and will be trading mine in soon.
