

Passcode: BONES

The wind was so strong on wednesday, a tree branch fell on my car and broke my windshield. I had to have the whole thing replaced!

I have also included some pictures of my boyfriend's arm. He broke his elbow completely away from all three bones and had to wear a brace on the outside of his arm (screwed through the skin and into the bone in 4 places) for 2 months. There was so little left to work with, it was the only thing they could do to try to keep it held together. Thank goodness it worked and he was able to have it taken out, but he still has a long way to recovery with physical therapy.
