

Essay 1

Well when you take the time to listen how or why someone else believes what they believe it will help you to open up and see there is a different way to look at a persons point of view. You may be oppose to why or how it happens but when someone else takes the time to explain a different way, you may find a different way to look at the situation your looking at. It might just help you to open up and think a little different then you normally did.

Most people are very quick to make up their mind and have a quick reason for why they don't agree or disagree...maybe it could simply be they are afraid to try and change their mind or maybe stuck in a certain way to think. The greatest thing to do is try to learn something new everyday specially by listening to other peoples opinions. The best way to figure a situation out is listening to everything that could go wrong, everything to make it right, and also what other people see or believe; that will allow you to truly see that there is truly a different way to look at anything!

By listening to other peoples' opinions really is a neat way to learn how or why they think what they do along with showing you that its okay to look at the topic differently.
