

Who am I?

Do not judge without knowing me, do not talk about me if you never talk with me, and never underestimate until you challenge me. Because you never know who I am until you know me. This week our professor of Oral communication asks us to create a small essay talking about ourselves using items that we have to put in a brown paper bag representing who we are as a different way to explain our characteristics. I thought is going to be fun because I have never tried to relate an object with my personality. Additionally, I thought is a very good idea because is important to know about each person and undoubtedly, I would like you to know a little bit about me.

My first item in the brown paper bag is an egg because when you throw it to the floor and step on it is never going to come back to the initial shape. I am like that respect is my first and more important value in my life. I like to respect people, but I also like them to respect me. If I respect somebody and that person does not do it to me, I may lose her trust and I may walk away from she or he.

My second item is a cup of water because you always going to see if it is dirty or clean. I am a transparent person you always can see if I am alright or not. I am a person that if I do not like something, I am going to say it and if I do not like somebody I am not going to act like the opposite. That also happens when I like something or if I like someone, everybody is going to noticed it.

Thirdly, I am like a book, from the outside, it seems boring but when you open it, it has a lot of interesting things. This is the best item I could choose to explain who I am. From the outside, if you do not know me or you just saw me walking, I may seem like a serious and shy person, but I am not. Once you get into me and you gain my trust, you can notice that I am so energetic, that like to talk a lot, and I laughing so much for everything especially if I am nervous. I do not like see people sad or angry even if they are not part of my friends, I always try to make them laughing and I am going to be there if you need to talk to someone.

The next item in my brown paper bag is a train; I am always following my way without caring what is in there and I just stop until I get to my destiny. I am a dreamer and I have a lot of goals and dreams I want to fulfill. I am the kind of person who focuses so much on getting what I want without stopping with the things that life presents to me. The thing is sometimes this is not good because I may forget about the important people and situations around me.

Finally, my last item is a Rubik cube. There is just one order to move each part and if you do not know that order you never going to complete it. I am a structure person, every day I write what I am going to do, I think about the time, the order, and the position of each activity. If something changes, I may be so stressed and sometimes mad.

In conclusion, I have so many positive characteristics but like everybody, those characteristics sometimes turn negative. I also have difficult moments and not every day I feel happy as we want to. I always think there is not a perfect woman or a perfect man in this world and I am not an exception. We all different but that is what makes us unique in our society. There is more about me that if I write to them, I may never finish, however, I am so glad that you already know a little bit about who I am.
