

I picked this picture because I feel as if it represents a woman under water. I think that the authors intention was to show how women usually are depressed when they have a lot of things going on with themselves or even family wise. It also looks as if the woman only has one eyeball as if she was hurt or maybe even sacrificed her eye.