

Who am I ?

“Who am I ?“ is a question many people are lucky to be able to answer in their 30s 40s or even 50s, truth is nobody is ever sure of who they are because someone perception of you could be totally different from what you believe yourself to be. We love to say other people don't matter when it comes to who we are but if no one in the world knows we exist do we actually even exist? Other peoples perception of you matters but it should only matter to them in my case I live my life regardless of other peoples feelings. Who am I ? : I am undoubtedly and unremorsefully me 24/7.

Speaking to family and friends and from my own knowledge I am a very talented individual. I can sing, I can write songs, and I can play the piano. Pretty much anything having to do with music im talented in that department. I like being talented it is apart of who I am. I like to believe I would sing even if everyone I know hated my voice because I do it for me and not for them, their just tagging along for the ride. Ive been singing for a long time I don't plan to stop.

Smart is an understatement when your describing me, im no Einstein but I love math with a passion and I enjoy being able to get to an exact and correct conclusion following the correct steps. I am intelligent and I love that about myself It would be hard to have to study super hard to be half as great as other people. I catch on quick to things im interested in and want to learn about. Spending a day with me would definitely be full of random facts.

Many people have told me to be a stand up comedian, however I don't have the guts to stand and not get laughed at. Im naturally funny in a way that I don't think of the joke they just kinda pop out. A lot of people like to hang around me because of this but I like to keep a small circle and a select group of friends. My friends get to enjoy my funny jokes and actions and personalty. I will say beingsuper funny is a hard job as a friend because you think everyone is using you for a pick me up when their down and no one is ther to cheer you up when its your turn.

I have great communication skills and I am just down to earth this is why I am personable. If you put me in a room with strangers I can easily strike up a conversation with them and have them engaged. The funny thing is I can talk to all kinds of people I have many vibes and I can also read them as well. I match energy very well and can be a good friend to any type of person. A lot of my friends are very different and versatile due to that very reason of me being able to vibe well with anyone. Being personable is hard when your and ambivert which is half extrovert and half introvert because so many people want to hang out with me and be my friend but I need my alone time to charge back up. I keep a minimal amount of real friends for that reason but I am friendly with everyone on this earth because why not?

Lastly I am destined. Destined for so much more than life can give. I have a wonderful relationship with God and I know he has so much in store for me. I've been told so many times that I am anointed. I grew up in church and sang in church, my anointing is what helps bring other people closer to God and it brings me closer to him as well in no way am I saying I am above or beyond but I am destined to be amazing in the Lord. Anytime I have a conversation I like to leave the conversation knowing that the person I was talking to is aware that I am a child of God because I am nothing without him and everyone should know who I stand with. In all I try to be a good person so that I can stay on the right path to my blessings.

So who am I? I am a Aniya Lawton. An intelligent, funny talented, personable and destined young lady. Knowing all these characteristics about myself would never be enough to describe myself entirely. My existence cannot be written in a million words. Who I am today and who I will be tomorrow are going to be different people. The world is forever changing and I am forever changing with it. The cornerstones of who I am will never fade but to say that I can answer a question such as who am I at 19 years of age is outrageous.