

Introduction

Black Lives Matter was founded in 2013 in response to the acquittal of Trayvon Martin's murderer. Black Lives Matter Foundation, Inc is a global organization in the US, UK, and Canada, whose mission is to eradicate white supremacy and build local power to intervene in violence inflicted on Black communities by the state and vigilantes. By combating and countering acts of violence, creating space for Black imagination and innovation, and centering Black joy, we are winning immediate improvements in our lives. We are a group of emancipators who have confidence in comprehensive and open development. We likewise accept that so as to win and carry the same number of individuals with us en route, we should move past the thin patriotism that is very common in Black Lives Matter. We should guarantee we are building a development that carries us all to the front.

Furthermore, history reflects that black lives were seen as being a fraction of human life during slavery. In Southern states where slavery was legal, slaves were counted as 3/5 of a person when counting the population. A true post-racial society has not been reached, so why are some people in the United States disregarding this civil rights campaign and asserting that all lives matter? It is being said that the statement that Black Lives Matter is an obvious one, but this obvious statement hasn't been reflected in history or current American society.

Conclusion

Since the start of America Black people have been dealt with as they don't make a difference. Individuals of color were subjugated and abused as a result of the shade of their skin and other natural qualities. At the point when bondage finished, people of color were still victimized because of the shade of their skin. It was worthy of separation dependent on skin shading in the pre-Civil Rights time, yet in the post-Civil Right period, things changed. The overwhelming type of prejudice is not, at this point obvious or dependent on organic qualities. It is a subtle form of prejudice known as partially blind bigotry that has impacted different pieces of American culture including the criminal equity framework. The All Lives Matter reaction is a result of the visually challenged society. It is used to attempt and stop the Black Lives Matter Movement and end any discussion about race. The Black Lives Matter Movement is another common rights movement to battle against this new form of racism. It's expressing that race matters in a general public where race is viewed as immaterial. The Black Lives Matter Movement is attempting to move away from partial blindness to shading awareness. It's not disregarding that bigotry is as yet an issue in the United States.

Reference

Alexander, M., & West, C. (2010). The New Jim Crow: Mass Incarceration in the age of Colorblindness. The New Press.

Bobo, L. D. (2011). Somewhere between Jim Crow & Post-Racialism: Reflections on the Racial Divide in America Today. Daedalus, 140(2), 11–36