It's All About Me !

People will never know who you truly are until you open up to them and show them the world within yourself. Many can judge you from the outside and many can judge you from what they hear, but nobody really knows who you are besides you yourself. Be yourself and let it be known that you are different and authentic. Traits often used to describe me are helpful, intuitive, and driven.

You would always catch me doing what I can, trying to be the best friend I can be. If you call me and ask for me to help, I do anything in my power to make sure everyone is doing alright. I always do what I can because you never know when you may need help and someone you mistreated is the only person that can save you. "What goes around, comes back around". I feel like this quote applies to everyone and anything. People say I'm always in my head and I think it's because I am intuitive.

Synonyms for intuition are "hunch, gut feeling, sixth sense and etc". I believe people use this word to describe me because there are many instances where the phrase "I told you so" is being used. I am usually the one with the strongest feelings about something and I let people know when something may be right or wrong. Because of this my friends come to me for advice and most of the time I am right. I am no fortune teller or shrink but once again always happy to help. This all stems from my internal drive to be the best me, I can be.

“Driven is I . I am driven”. My determination stems deep from my childhood. Growing up I didn't always have a lot and I was taught that if you want to have everything you ever dreamed off when you were little , you have to put in all the work now and you'd be happy in the end . I have always wanted to be happy and financially stable and generally happy. I am my own motivator and I always try to be on top.

My helpfulness , my intuition and my drive make up the better parts of me. I am firm in what I do and strong for what I stand for and with that being said, I think I am an ideal friend. Being able to use my traits to help other people also puts a smile on my face because not everyone had the same upbringing and we all need to be our brother and sister's keeper.
