

Charlene Hills

1. The quality that is most important in my opinion to be a police officer is experience and field training. As a police officer, you are working with the public all the time therefore, you must excel in the field and provide the best service. Just like shopping center workers must have good customer service skills so do police officers so I believe that law enforcement needs to know how to deal with all kinds of people and not get scared. When police officers get scared, they have weapons they use to defend themselves, but I believe that rookie police officers should not obtain a gun until after more field experience. Also, having some sort of experience like being in the military or went to college is important because you have prior knowledge of the field you are entering.
2. The quality that is most important is staying clean, prior experience, police academy, medical exam, and fitness exam. Based off the article there were more information given on the items that I had listed. Having a good background and passing the police academy is important for becoming a police officer.