Are women molested more than men? As I searched up the definition of 'molested,' the results stated that it is an "assault or abuse (a person, especially a woman or child) sexually." The definition has even concluded that women are more likely to be molested. Sexual violence affects millions of Americans being that on average, there are 433,648 victims (age 12 or older) of rape and sexual assault each year in the United States. Women and girls experience sexual violence at high rates. According to RAINN, young women are especially at risk. Females ages 16-19 are 4 times more likely than the general population to be victims of rape, attempted rape, or sexual assault while women from ages 18-24 who are college students are 3 times more likely than women in general to experience sexual violence. Whereas for men, as of 1998, 2.78 million men in the U.S. had been victims of attempted or completed rape. 1 out of every 10 sexual assault victims are male.
