Career Development Conference Takeaway

-The Career Development Conference was held virtually on September 21, 2020. The conference was focused on helping students learn and understand the secret to landing in a great job, internship, or graduate school programs. They had a one-to-one help on LinkedIn profile and resume, elevator pitch and technical skill practices and live video conferencing with graduate schools and recruiters. The one that I really enjoyed was the TechTalk booth. It was with three recruiters sharing their experiences and advice on how to stand out with your resume. They explained how the recruiting process takes place, the specific things that they look for and do and don't. It was really helpful and interesting because we get to understand from their side of the job. The chats were helpful too. Overall, it was a great experience and I'm thankful for all who put an effort to organize and invite students to the virtual program.
