

Pastor John,

I faced a turbulence within my family. I realize not to be overtaken by something that didn't belong to me. It has been a strain because of who they are. But I am staying focus and not letting compassion be a crouch. It has been a week of reality, but "The Role Model " reminded me there are time frames before you to reach. It has become such an inspiration of knowing it is alright to say Know. It is such a freeness not to feel captivated by such a small word. It has taught me that I can still love my family with still not thinking it always a yes. I feel like I have truly accomplish what was needed.
