Success for Life & Ministry

Reflection of material found in chapter 11

The readings of this chapter exposes the importance of discussing an issue rather than attacking an individual or not to jump to conclusions which is found under fallacies in reasoning. To become a critical thinker, you must be able to recognize fallacies because it'll assist you in thinking or writing. Being able to say "I don't know", understanding before criticizing, and identifying alternative views are tips that help you to think critically.

I've found materials that enable me to avoid internet scams and to be creative. The three S's (sensitivity, synergy and serendipity) of creativity are a plus for executing your hidden talents. Sensitivity stands out the most because it discovers the world and spot its deficiencies.

In conclusion overall critical thinking is required for life in general, and once it's put to use, you'll can only success in everything you're pursuing.
