

Running Header: The Most Important Ingredient in Leadership

The Most Important Ingredient of Leadership

Samantha Thomas

LS 101 Developing a Healthy Leader

11/10/2017

Dr. Blanche Wallace

The Most Important Ingredient of Leadership

Leadership is today implies more than success, leadership is more about transforming the system. Many of the great leaders of today were great leaders but it was not because of their success but I was because they transformed their worlds (Denning, 2012). Leadership is more than being excellent sheep, its more about making a positive change and making a difference for the people that they are leading. Too much time have been wasted advising our leaders how to jump through hoops, without even realizing that they have been trained to be skilled bureaucrats instead of innovative warriors who have enhanced national security (Denning,2012). Sometimes leaders resist change. If a leader has developed a program that is now being phased out for something that is much better, they may feel that the change is a personal attack and they will then react defensively (Maxwell,1993).[CITATION Joh93 \l 1033] Great leadership transforms the system.

The Most Important Ingredient of Leadership

References

Denning, S. (2012). The Key Ingredient In Leadership Today.

Maxwell, J. C. (1993). Developing The Healthy Leader Within You.