1. What are three ways we can make our ministries incarnational?

Incarnational - The embodiment of a deity or spirit in some earthly form. The Union of divinity and humanity in Jesus Christ.

- a. We must be sent by Christ as God sent Christ. We must preach, sent to be persecuted and suffer; make known the will of the Father and offer salvation to mankind.
  - b. We must immerse ourselves into the culture as Jesus did. He learned to customs, the livelihood. He became a part of the culture which made it less difficult to communicate.
  - c. One of our greatest undertakings will be to teach and help others become disciples in that they are able to win souls to the kingdom of God. Jesus sent His disciples into the world.
2. What three New Testament passages indicate God's directive in reaching people from other cultures?
    - a. John 4:40 - Jesus meets the Samaritan woman at the well at Sychar. He stayed for a few days there.
    - b. Luke 17:11-19 - Jesus has an encounter with lepers. He heals them. The Samaritan leper came back and thanked Him.
    - c. Luke 7:1-10 - Jesus heals the Roman soldier's sick servant.

3. Why is the personal approach the most effective approach to ministry, especially since we live in a technological culture?

The personal approach is very effective because it is a touch that is seldom received in this fast-pace 21st century filled with an enormous amount of “finger-tip” “on-your-own” technology. We serve a “personal” God who created us to have a personal relationship with Him. A relationship of love and trust. He is a personal being and created us as personal beings, unique and in His image and likeness. There are many moments in life when there is a need for a smile, hug or a pat on the back. This shows compassion, concern and love. It also helps with evangelizing and teaching other to act in the same manner as disciples of Christ. Additionally, the personal approach is effective as we are able to display the Fruit of the Spirit.
