Big Momma left an Impression on my Life

I had a praying great grandmother. She was a prayer warrior like no other, she would pray for day on end for people soul to be saved. Bertha T William left a lasting impression on my life. we all called her Big Momma. I think everybody have a big momma in their family. She was a virtuous women, an evangelist, and a pillar of her community. She was the type person that would make sure family spent time together a home and in the church.

Big Momma was truly a virtuous woman in her home and in the community. She always made sure that people in her home and community felt safe and secure to the best of her abilities. She would teach young ladies in the neighborhood how to cook and clean so they could become good wives one day. She even would stay up late preparing thing to contribute to her local church she attended to help the needy.

Big Momma was a women of great wisdom, and insight. People from far and near would stop by to chat with this anointed women of God that was called Big Momma. If there was a lost soul that stopped by and was not confessing that Jesus was their Lord and savior, by the time they left her presences they would be confessing and for those that wasn't quite convinced, she would go in her attic and stay there until that person would confess that Jesus had saved their soul. Big Momma was a powerful prayer warrior. She was a forerunner for our family and the community.

Big Momma would take the lead in several events with in the community, trying her best not to leave anyone out. One of her famous motto was, a family that prays together, stays together. A Community that plays together stays together, and a church that love together show Jesus together. She was always involved in things the community was involved in. she would stand in the gap for lost and missed guided youth in the community. She stayed I Constance prayer and supplication for the homeless and the hopeless, or should I say the one that felt like there was no hope. She would always tell them, as long as there is breath in your body then there is hope.

Ultimately Big Momma became the person that was the most impressionable in my life, she was a serious prayer warrior. When was younger I didn't understand or realize all the things that she did would impact my life like it do. Her faithfulness, her prayer life, her involvement with the youth in the community, her words of wisdom, her sharing of her gifts and skills and her total love for the Lord would prove to be vital to me in my spiritual walk with God. Sometime I find myself doing all those thing that she exemplified to so many people. Stealing away to pray for people is one of the things that is ingrained in my spirit and I love seeing ho God move and save his people. I am always trying to get family and my church community to build a closer relationship with God and each other. My great grandmother Bertha T William, AKA Big Momma was a true women of God that left a lasting impression on my life.
