

Class Preparation
Leadership Unit VII
Due Tuesday May 2nd, 2023

1. Why is it important for nurses to be good leaders? What qualities have you observed from nurses that exemplify effective leadership in action?

It is important to be a good leader, so we can be the best nurse possible to our patients.

Advocating for our patient is very important and the nurse must be able to effectively express to other healthcare members the recommendations

2. As a new graduate, what leadership and followership skills will you work on developing in your first year of practice? Why?

Advocating – important quality to provide good care to patients

Good communication – being able to communicate with providers and patients is very important to provide good care.

Adaptability -being able to adapt to changes throughout my shift and career will be important to change my care as new things arise. Being able to adapt without difficulty will make my care better.

3. List at least 3 organizations or agencies that support quality and safety in the health-care system.

- Joint commission
- Center for Medicaid and Medicare
- CDC

4. How do regulatory agencies/ accrediting agencies affect patient care and outcomes at the bedside?

They set regulations that must be met by organizations to optimize patient care and safety.

5. What is the difference between delegation and assigning tasks?

Delegating	Assigning
Having someone else do a task that was once for them but keeping accountability for it being done.	Giving someone a task to complete and giving accountability with it.
