

Nursing Professional Self-Pledge

I, Ryan Claggett, recognize that as a nurse, I have a professional commitment to myself. I will honor this commitment by: (give a minimum of two actions you will take to fulfill a professional commitment to yourself such as actions you might take to demonstrate a commitment to life-long learning, self-care or developing resilience)

1) Regularly take self-development courses on the advancement of care and new techniques to keep my patients safer and out of the hospital longer.

2) Challenge myself with difficult cases while incorporating teamwork to develop resilience.

I recognize that I also have a professional commitment to the profession of nursing. I will honor this commitment by: (give a minimum of two actions you will take to fulfill a professional commitment to nursing such as actions you might take to advance the science of nursing, care for vulnerable populations or advocacy)

1) Performing an assessment on each of my patients and advocating for their individualized care.

2) Reaching out to communities where there is poor access to healthcare resources to provide safe, individualized care.

I accept that I am responsible for presenting a positive and professional image of nursing. Ways that I will honor this commitment will include: (give a minimum of two actions you will take to present a positive and professional image of nursing such as conduct, language, or appearance)

1) Having a smile on my face, even on a hectic day or if I am having a "bad day."

2) Wearing my uniform with pride, wrinkle-free, and clean to the best of my ability.

The profession of nursing is one that requires adherence to an established code of ethics. I will uphold these ideals to ensure the care I provide those I care for receive the highest quality of care I can give. As a student of nursing, I believe this commitment begins now. Therefore, I pledge to uphold these commitments to professionalism to the best of my abilities from this point in my nursing education and continuing throughout my career as a nurse.
