

Nursing Professional Self-Pledge

I, Destiny Klinger, recognize that as a nurse, I have a professional commitment to myself. I will honor this commitment by: (give a minimum of two actions you will take to fulfill a professional commitment to yourself such as actions you might take to demonstrate a commitment to life-long learning, self-care or developing resilience)

I will continue to review policies and procedures to ensure I am providing the most up-to-date care possible, and I will ensure that when I leave work I do not take it home with me, and any mistakes made I will use those to provide better care in the future.

I recognize that I also have a professional commitment to the profession of nursing. I will honor this commitment by: (give a minimum of two actions you will take to fulfill a professional commitment to nursing such as actions you might take to advance the science of nursing, care for vulnerable populations or advocacy)

I will listen to my pt. and speak up for them when they have questions or concerns or even if care is going against their wishes. When it comes to caring for special populations, I will tailor my care to fit where they are in life.

I accept that I am responsible for presenting a positive and professional image of nursing. Ways that I will honor this commitment will include: (give a minimum of two actions you will take to present a positive and professional image of nursing such as conduct, language, or appearance)

I will show up in clean, non-wrinkled scrubs and I will only use medical terminology and no profanity in the hospital setting.

The profession of nursing is one that requires adherence to an established code of ethics. I will uphold these ideals to ensure the care I provide those I care for receive the highest quality of care I can give. As a student of nursing, I believe this commitment begins now. Therefore, I pledge to uphold these commitments to professionalism to the best of my abilities from this point in my nursing education and continuing throughout my career as a nurse.

Signature: Destiny Klinger

Date: 11/25/2024