

This is the cycle of a water drop in the town of Fruitvale.

Once upon a time there was a pool in Fruitvale. Some old lady ran into the pool that was in Fruitvale. The pool drained on to main street of Fruitvale and made a mud puddle. The mud puddle drained into a yard. The water then went deep into the ground and became groundwater. The groundwater got pumped up and went into the city of Fruitvale's water well.

Some kids shot the water well in a gang fight and the water leaked in front of Randy's gas station. The next day it was very hot and the water turned into vapor and was rising over top of the gas station. The next morning there was dew resting on one single stem piece of grass. A kindergartener stepped on the grass that had the dew drop on it and they also had dog poop on the bottom of their shoe and walked into the school. They tracked it all over the school and the school broke out with e. Coli bacterium all over it and the kids all got sick.

That is the story of the water drop and how all the kids in Fruitvale got sick.
