

 Activity 1.1.1 Basic Provisions*Purpose

The most basic needs of human beings include food, clothing, and shelter. Due to innovations and advances made in providing for basic needs, many people today take these items for granted. However, your predecessors could not. Early hunters and gatherers spent nearly all of their time searching for food, clothing, and shelter for themselves and their family.

As agriculture developed, farmers could produce enough food for storage and to sell to others. Advancements in agricultural production and practices have led to the involvement of fewer people in production agriculture and have allowed more people to explore other industries and careers. The development of luxury items, such as cellular phones and cars, has occurred as the industries and careers outside of agriculture grew.

How has the development and advancement of agriculture changed the items you have in your life? As you complete this activity, you will take a walk in the shoes of people throughout time to answer this question.

Materials*Per group of four students:

Provision Note Cards

Per student:

Pencil

Procedure

You will be working in a group of four students. Read the directions for Part One below and begin this activity.

Part One – Hunting and Gathering

When your teacher instructs you to do so, each person in your group will go get one blue note card.

Return to your group.

Place your cards on the table. The cards describe all of the resources available to you after a long day of survival.

Identify the items you have available to you as food, clothing, or shelter in Table 1 of Activity 1.1.1 Student Worksheet.

Answer Part One analysis questions on the student worksheet

In your group, discuss how a hunting and gathering lifestyle might affect population, survival rates, and leisure time. Record your thoughts.

Part Two – Early Agriculture

1. When your teacher instructs you to do so, each person in your group will go get two yellow note cards.
2. Return to your group.
3. Place your cards on the table and determine if you have sufficient resources. In this round, each card provides a sufficient quantity of resources to feed, clothe, or shelter all members in your group. For example, if you gather a lumber card, you can build a shelter for your entire group. If you gather a rice card, you have enough carbohydrates for the entire group.

Food – At least one item from each of the following groups

Protein	Carbohydrate	Fruits and Vegetables
Cattle	Wheat	Apples
Sheep	Corn	Oranges
Pigs	Rice	Peas
Chickens	Potato	Beans

Clothing – Fabric or leather

Shelter – Lumber, canvas tarps, or brick

Select up to two items you may want to trade with only one other group.

When instructed by your teacher, exchange items with one other group willing to trade.

Identify the items you have available to you as food, clothing, or shelter in Table 2 on the student worksheet.

Answer the Part Two analysis questions.

Part Three – Life in the 21st Century

1. When your teacher instructs you to do so, each person in your group will go get three green note cards.
2. Return to your group.
3. Place your cards on the table and determine if you have sufficient resources. In this round, each card provides sufficient quantities of the item on the card for the whole group.

Three meals – breakfast, lunch, and dinner

Four items of clothing – shirt, pants or shorts, shoes, jacket

Shelter – house

Select up to four items to trade with other groups, if desired. You may trade with multiple groups in this round.

Exchange items with other groups when instructed by your teacher.

Place your cards on the table and determine if you have what your group wants.

Select up to four items to make another trade with other groups, if desired.

Exchange items with other groups when instructed by your teacher.

Identify the items you have available to you as food, clothing, shelter, or luxury items in Table 3 on the student worksheet.

Answer the Part Three analysis questions.

Conclusion

1. How has agriculture made life and survival easier for humans?

Humans could buy food, clothing, and shelter.

What are three improvements to agriculture that have made life easier for you?

Food, Clothing, and shelter

Do you live on a farm? Where do you get agricultural products? No I don't live on a farm. From the market.

Name _____

Activity 1.1.1 Student Worksheet

Table 1. Hunting and Gathering

Food	Clothing	Shelter
Fish	Fleece
Fish
Dried Barries

Part One Analysis Questions

Did your group collect sufficient resources for survival, such as food, clothing, and shelter for four people? Why or why not?

No because we have no shelter to store food and little piece of clothing.

What challenges does your group face based on the resources you collected to provide food, clothing, and shelter? large amount of weather, no place to store food, food could go bad before they even eat it.

Table 2. Early Agriculture

Food	Clothing	Shelter
Peas	Sheep	Canvas tarp
Chicken		Lumber
Wheat

Part Two Analysis Questions

Did your group collect sufficient resources for survival? Why or why not?

Yes because we had enough food, clothing and shelter to survive.

What challenges does your group face based on the resources you collected to provide food, clothing, and shelter?

The challenge they faced were nothing much.

How did trading help your group?

No trading was involve

In your group, discuss how early agriculture practices affect population, survival rates, and leisure time. Record your thoughts. Early agriculture was more easier than expected.

Table 3. 21st Century

Food	Clothing	Shelter	Luxury
Breakfast	Shirts	House	Cell Phone
Dinner	Jean (2x)		Video Games (2x)
Taco(Lunch)	Shoes (2x)

Part Three Analysis Questions

Did your group collect sufficient resources for survival? Why or why not?

Yes- because we have all resources to survive.

How did trading help your group?

We traded for a shirt.

What differences do you see between food items from early agriculture and food today?

Today they already complete meal for us.

Why are luxury items desirable even though they are not considered a basic need?
Cars are easier to get around, and cell phones can keep in touch with our friends.