

 Activity 2.1.1 Communication Charades*Purpose

Communication is much more than just talking. You talk, you smile, you gesture, and you communicate your feelings and message in many ways. People use verbal and nonverbal communication methods including speech, facial expressions, hand gestures, body position, and emotional sounds. In some situations, not talking is the most effective means of communication. Without using speech, babies can communicate by using emotional sounds and facial expressions.

In the game of charades, players communicate clues nonverbally with their teammates who try to guess the clue correctly. One player acts out the clue item repeatedly until his or her team correctly identifies the clue. The game requires the players to use non-verbal communication. Are you a skilled communicator?

MaterialsPer class:

Charades Cue Cards

Per student:

Pencil
Agriscience Notebook

Procedure

In this activity, you will play charades by acting out a clue using non-verbal communication.

Part One – Completing the Charade

1. Your teacher will provide each student with a cue card.
2. Read the clue to yourself and, when it is your turn, act out the clue on the cue card.

Use only non-verbal communication – no talking or sounds.

You have 15 seconds to communicate your clue non-verbally to your classmates.

3. Your classmates will attempt to guess what you are doing.
4. If no one correctly guesses your clue, you can provide verbal hints to act out the clue, but do not say any of the words in the clue.

Part Two – Determining the Form of Communication

1. As each person presents their clue, determine what clue they are demonstrating.
5. Record each clue in Table 1.
6. Determine and record one non-verbal and one verbal method of communicating each clue.

Conclusion

Why is it important to recognize non-verbal communication?

for to under stand what they are trying to say

In what situations is it helpful to use non-verbal communication? when you are playing shoraes

Activity 2.1.1 Student Worksheet

Table 1. Communication Cues

	Clue	Non-Verbal Cue	Verbal Cue
1.	scared	hands and face
2.	bowling	hands
3.	lafeing	faceual expresion
4.	angry	body patition
5.	watching a car	hand
6.	happy	faceual
7.	lan forer	body and hand
8.	reading	hands
9.	swining	hand and body and faceal
10.	wheding	body and hand
11.	looking throw a microscope	hands
12.	coming your hair	hand
13.	plowing field	hands and body
14.	eating corn	hands and faciel
15.	playing cards	hand
16.	flosing	face and hand
17.	scopa diving	hand and body
18.	nervise	hand and body and faceal
19.	crying	hand
20.	buard	facial

Analysis Questions

1. Describe the difference between verbal and non-verbal communication.

verbal is talking and non verbal is using hand and body and face to say something.

7. Which method of communication is easier for you and why? I use both because i have speech problems also some time i use my hands to explain something.