

How Agriculture relates to Dance?

To start off dance is very important to me and I have been doing it since I was 4. I am majorly into tap and enjoy learning new moves and making awesome sounds. So how does dance have to do anything with agriculture well in this you will learn accidentally how it does by some of my favorite things such as my leotard ,my tap shoes, makeup, and hair products.

First my leotard is a blend of materials like cotton, polyester, nylon or spandex. Which is agriculture related because cotton is a major part in natural resources. Because It had to go through so many factories to be into this product. It is a big part in dance because it helps you be able to bend and move a round.

Next my tap shoes involve agriculture because the sole is mainly made out of leather which is a primary thing that helps support my tap shoes and helps keep my feet comfy. It might have originally been calfskin or alligator skin which is smooth and slick. And the bottom of my shoe is made of metal which was also made by agriculture because it had to go through so many processes and the metal is what makes us make the sound.

Last but not least my makeup and hair products are some by bee pollen and beeswax honeycomb which had to be made because of course animals in volve agriculture. This is what gives it that textured feeling and helps cover your face and shine. I use this mainly for recital time so when you're on stage you don't get blushed out.

In conclusion dance involves a lot of agriculture from what you wear to what you put on and where you dance. Agriculture is all around you if you just think about it. Agriculture is what a lot of our stuff is made out of.
