Nurse Ashely and

Categories	Exemplar	Opportunities for Improvement
Patient-Centered Care	Asking about the patient's pain is good and makes her feel like you care about her pain.	I think they should check the site while asking about pain.
Teamwork & Collaboration	Calling the doctor about her low blood pressure which they thought to do together was a good call.	Repeating back what the doctor wanted to ensure they heard correctly
Evidence Based Practice	Having the patient wear her oxygen to help raise her o2 stats.	Checking another finger to ensure that it's her right o2 stats.
Safety	Raising patients head to decrease the chance of aspiration, when she was in distress.	Doing it at the first sign of distress.
Informatics	Knowing her food restriction and ensuring that she was only allowed ice chips.	Explain to the patient not just the daughter why she could not have anything else to eat.
