

Covenant School of Nursing Reflective

Learning to be a reflective practitioner includes not only acquiring knowledge and skills, but also the ability to establish a link between theory and practice, providing a rationale for actions. Reflective practice is the link between theory and practice and a powerful means of using theory to inform practice thus promoting evidence based practice.” (Tsingos et al., 2014)

Using the Reflective Practice template, document each step. The suggestions in the boxes may help you as you reflect on the incident. This Reflective Practice document will be reviewed by faculty and then you will post the final reflection in your LiveBinder folder.

Step 1 Description A description of the incident, with relevant details. Remember to maintain patient confidentiality. Don't make judgments yet or try to draw conclusions; simply describe the events and the key players. Set the scene! It might be useful to ask yourself the following questions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What happened? • When did it happen? • Where were you? • Who was involved? • What were you doing? • What role did you play? • What roles did others play? • What was the result? 	Step 4 Analysis <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What can you apply to this situation from your previous knowledge, studies or research? • What recent evidence is in the literature surrounding this situation, if any? • Which theories or bodies of knowledge are relevant to the situation – and in what ways? • What broader issues arise from this event? • What sense can you make of the situation? • What was really going on? • Were other people's experiences similar or different in important ways? • What is the impact of different perspectives eg. personal / patients / colleagues?
Step 2 Feelings Don't move on to analyzing these yet, simply describe them. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How were you feeling at the beginning? • What were you thinking at the time? • How did the event make you feel? • What did the words or actions of others make you think? • How did this make you feel? • How did you feel about the final outcome? • What is the most important emotion or feeling you have about the incident? • Why is this the most important feeling? 	Step 5 Conclusion <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How could you have made the situation better? • How could others have made the situation better? • What could you have done differently? • What have you learned from this event?
Step 3 Evaluation <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What was good about the event? • What was bad? • What was easy? • What was difficult? • What went well? • What did you do well? • What did others do well? • Did you expect a different outcome? If so, why? • What went wrong, or not as expected? Why? • How did you contribute? 	Step 6 Action Plan <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What do you think overall about this situation? • What conclusions can you draw? How do you justify these? • With hindsight, would you do something differently next time and why? • How can you use the lessons learned from this event in future? • Can you apply these learnings to other events? • What has this taught you about professional practice about yourself? • How will you use this experience to further improve your practice in the future?

Covenant School of Nursing Reflective

My clinical experience was a good one. I had a nurse that really advocated for her patients and assisted with all their needs. She was amazing. She is the kind of nurse that I want to be when I graduate. She was really helpful in explaining everything to me. I learned that in the SICU some of the patients are unable to communicate with you so, it is important to try to have them write things down in order to help them. I am very grateful for the experience I did have this week. I was unable to attend both days but the first day was amazing. I enjoyed how helpful they staff were, and they were all willing to help one another. There was one nurse who came up to me and asked me if I had any questions and he was willing to explain things to me. When I become a nurse that is the kind of nurse, I want to become one that is willing to help others and explain to the nurses what is going on or the reasoning they are doing what they are doing. As a new nurse I am scared to death that I do not know what I am doing but it is good to know that there are still nurses out there willing to help. I hope when I start my nursing career, I work for a department like SICU that have great charge nurses and great team players. I want to be the best nurse I can for my patients and also make sure I am there for the patients family members since they are going through a hard time.
