Possession of a controlled substance and tampering with or fabricating physical evidence (drug diversion)

I think more drug abuse screening and more frequent drug testing could have helped prevent this situation. If a drug abuse problem is found offer services to help the person receive help with the addiction

The nurse would need to inform a superior if any suspicion of drug abuse is indicated to help prevent any further issues that could come up from this drug abuse such as theft of controlled drugs or patient injury due to working while impaired.
