

Learning to be a reflective practitioner includes not only acquiring knowledge and skills, but also the ability to establish a link between theory and practice, providing a rationale for actions. Reflective practice is the link between theory and practice and a powerful means of using theory to inform practice thus promoting evidence based practice.” (Tsingos et al., 2014)

Using the Reflective Practice template, document each step. The suggestions in the boxes may help you as you reflect on the incident. This Reflective Practice document will be reviewed by faculty and then you will post the final reflection in your LiveBinder folder.

Step 1 Description A description of the incident, with relevant details. Remember to maintain patient confidentiality. Don't make judgments yet or try to draw conclusions; simply describe the events and the key players. Set the scene! It might be useful to ask yourself the following questions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What happened? • When did it happen? • Where were you? • Who was involved? • What were you doing? • What role did you play? • What roles did others play? • What was the result? 	Step 4 Analysis <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What can you apply to this situation from your previous knowledge, studies or research? • What recent evidence is in the literature surrounding this situation, if any? • Which theories or bodies of knowledge are relevant to the situation – and in what ways? • What broader issues arise from this event? • What sense can you make of the situation? • What was really going on? • Were other people's experiences similar or different in important ways? • What is the impact of different perspectives eg. personal / patients / colleagues?
Step 2 Feelings Don't move on to analyzing these yet, simply describe them. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How were you feeling at the beginning? • What were you thinking at the time? • How did the event make you feel? • What did the words or actions of others make you think? • How did this make you feel? • How did you feel about the final outcome? • What is the most important emotion or feeling you have about the incident? • Why is this the most important feeling? 	Step 5 Conclusion <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How could you have made the situation better? • How could others have made the situation better? • What could you have done differently? • What have you learned from this event?
Step 3 Evaluation <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What was good about the event? • What was bad? • What was easy? • What was difficult? • What went well? • What did you do well? • What did others do well? • Did you expect a different outcome? If so, why? • What went wrong, or not as expected? Why? • How did you contribute? 	Step 6 Action Plan <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What do you think overall about this situation? • What conclusions can you draw? How do you justify these? • With hindsight, would you do something differently next time and why? • How can you use the lessons learned from this event in future? • Can you apply these learnings to other events? • What has this taught you about professional practice about yourself? • How will you use this experience to further improve your practice in the future?

Step 1 Description We had a few scenarios that we went through together as a group. The first scenario I played the role of a mother to the patient, that was 9mo old boy that was diagnosed with Hirschsprung's disease. Two of my classmates played the role of nurses, and 1 classmate was observing the scene play out. The second scenario Chase and I played the role of the nurse assisting in care of a 18mo girl dx with tachypnea and poor feeding, 1 classmate was playing the role as the mother of the pt, and the other classmate was observing the scene play out.	Step 4 Analysis The first scenario went smoothly. The nurses did a great job taking care of this patient. The second scenario could have gone better. It was a learning experience. The orders stated to call the physician if there are more than 5 PCV's. I should have done a read back on the verbal order the physician gave on the potassium, and I should have noticed the med error on the potassium.
Step 2 Feelings During the first scenario, I acted as if that my child laying in the bed. I was worried about how to perform ostomy care. I have 3 boys, so this came easy to me. During the second scenario, I played to role of a nurse. This was very nerve wrecking for me. I got extremely nervous because I knew I was being watched, and I did not want to mess up.	Step 5 Conclusion In the first scenario, I would not change anything. In the second scenario, I would have taken my time and made sure I read everything thoroughly on the physician orders. I would have called the physician sooner and read back the verbal order that was given. I would have made sure I paid better attention to the order that was verbal and then written.
Step 3 Evaluation The first scenario played out well. The nurses did great in prioritizing care and administered pain medications promptly. They also did great in teaching me how to perform ostomy care, which was a concern of mine. The second scenario was difficult. We should have contacted the physician sooner, because pt had 5 or more PVCs. Once we did contact the provider, we were instructed what to do. I should have caught a med error with the potassium that was verbally given to me and then ordered by the physician.	Step 6 Action Plan Overall, both scenarios were a great learning experience. I feel like playing the mom of a patient helped me realize how important it is to take the extra time to educate thoroughly. This will ease the parents concerns, and best for family centered care. I wish I would have done better in playing the role of a nurse during the second scenario. I realized how important it is to make sure you read and understand the physician's orders, and to make sure I do read back when receiving a verbal order. This was a great learning experience for me.
