Growing up, I always had to help translate in clinics and hospitals to help my parents understand anything a nurse was telling us because they did not speak or understand English. I know that to this day many people still struggle. I would someday like to be another one of those nurses that is there to help in any way possible. I respect very highly anyone in the working field, but nurses have always caught my attention. They are the ones making everything flow. I chose the nursing career in order to take on a challenge and wake up every day making a sort of impact in a stranger's life. I will be able to take on everyday not knowing what to expect, but knowing I was there to help everyone around me as a nurse.
