Why Nursing?

Why do I want to be a nurse? I decided very abruptly that I wanted to do nursing in January of my senior year. I have always been interested in classes such as biology, chemistry and anatomy. I love learning things about the body, how it works, and the very complex things it can do. Also, I enjoy helping people. I want to be an impact on peoples' lives and help them get through hard times if possible, give them a glimpse of hope or just joy. I believe I will be good at this considering the many complex things I have. Already gotten to experience in my own life. I hope that those times have given me some knowledge that might be helpful to others going through the same things which I would have liked to know while I was going through it.
