Comments: I did try to include a video of me taking my patient's blood sugar before I went to the Med Room and got my insulin medication, but it would make the video too long, so I just inserted a caption/subtitle in my video that I did get my patient's blood sugar before I gathered my medications.

I also forgot to get 2 Normal Saline flushes from the Med Room when I was gathering my supplies to be used on my IV Push medication of Furosemide. However, I did use 2 NS flushes when I administered my IV push medication on the CVAD line.

I honestly do not know what happened with the device that we were using to record our videos, but somehow it did not record the scene where I scanned my patient's wrist band and where I scanned my medications and compared it to my EMAR, since that is my 3rd and final check, before I gave all the medications to my patient. It might have some technical problems so I just added on my video that I acknowledged that I was missing a clip wherein I did scan my patient's wrist band and also compared all my medications to my EMAR.
