Self-Evaluation Concerning ARRT's Code of Ethics Third Principle

Questions to consider?

What type of person do you feel most comfortable with?

I feel most comfortable with younger kids. I have 4 younger siblings and have been around kids my entire life.

2. Do you think you may feel more compassion toward a patient with a heart condition or cancer or a patient with a sexually transmitted disease?

Without a doubt, I would feel more compassion toward a patient with a heart condition or cancer. This patient most likely cannot control what is happening to him/her. However, I would treat both patients with the same respect. That is not my job to judge or discriminate against anyone.

3. How do you feel you would interact with a morbidly obese patient compared to one of average structure?

I feel like I would interact the same. However, I am aware obese patients would be more difficult to handle but that should not change the way I would interact with them.

4. Who would you rather work with, a physically disabled patient or a mentally disabled patient?

It would not bother me to have either patient. It is my responsibility to put the patient first in all situations. Taking care of people, no matter the circumstance needs to be a top priority no matter their physical or mental state.
