

I have always been passionate about the medical field, and I am deeply committed to pursuing a career in nursing. My drive for nursing comes from my mother who has several medical conditions. I have been to countless appointments with my mother starting at a very young age to present day, and I have seen her get amazing care. I have seen firsthand the positive impact that a nurse can have on a patient's life. I desire to provide every patient I encounter with respect and memorable care.
