

I chose nursing to be able to help people in their time of need. I have a servant's heart and have always known nursing was for me since I can remember. I love how versatile nursing is as well and how many specialties there are as I love to learn new things. I also cannot wait to be able to further my education in this profession and help people even more in this healthcare field.