Evidence-Based Practice Poster Presentation

Group Member: Kaitlynn Ortiz

What did this member contribute to the presentation?

Unfortunately, Kaitlynn's contribution to the presentation was minimal. There was little effort to meet up with the rest of the group to put the poster together despite multiple attempts to work with her schedule. There was also minimal communication in our group chat regarding the project despite the rest of us constantly responding. She also did not fully complete her portion of the project and instead, emailed me the link to the support groups that I then had to put into a word document to print. The other half of her portion was emailed to me to be printed and put on the poster. She was responsible for the support groups and patient teaching.

Group Member: Shelby Larkins

What did this member contribute to the presentation?

Shelby was a wonderful group mate and ensured that her portion of the project was done by the deadline we set as a group so that we could get the information put on the poster. She was a great communicator and made every effort to work with everyone's schedules in order to get the presentation done. She was responsible for the symptom management and prevention teaching.

Group Member: Maria Cruz

What did this member contribute to the presentation?

Maria was a great contributor to the project. She was quick at communication and made the effort to meet up with the group to get the poster done. She was also sure to get her portion of the project done by the deadline we set as a group. Maria was in charge of Diagnostics and the effects COVID-19 has on osteomyelitis cases. While, unfortunately, Maria is not here to present, she was still a huge help in the success of the poster.

Additional Comments: Unfortunately, on the day of our group made deadline, I was scheduled to work so, while I did make the effort to find a time that worked, we could not find a way to accommodate everyone's schedules. Instead, Maria and Shelby met up to put their portions of the project together and then, I took the poster and was supposed to meet up with Kaitlynn to finish it. The meeting never occurred since she was not able to arrange a time; I was left to finish both of our parts on my own. Kaitlynn did offer to help however; the project had already been completed as I had told her in class the day before.
