To become a nurse would be such a privilege. The privilege to help others in a vulnerable place and be a helping hand to them is all I have ever wanted to do. I love everything that has to do with anatomy and biology, but I also love helping people personally. I have seen the power of a nurse shine through in times of need. Nurses are there to help you in crisis and can hold your hand and help get you through emotionally. I want to be a light to someone going through a darker time.
