20 years ago I worked as a housekeeper in a retirement village, I felt in love with those residents, although I was not involved in their care, but the nurses gave an outstanding care to those residents. Ever since then I've always wanted to care for people like those residents. I have been an LVN for the last 13 years, in that time I have worked in different specialties, but I fall in love with women's health and obstetrics. This has motived me to better my skills to provide upscale care for my patients.
