

Community Service Reflection

The activities that I participated in were, loading boxes with different foods. We had an assembly line going on and the staff that we assisted was very thorough and wanted the task done in specific order. We prepared a hundred to a hundred and twenty boxes within three and a half hours. There were baskets were filled with peas, rice, beans, chili, tomato sauce, macaroni, condiments that were really good ones. Each box fit about 20 products in them.

The South Plains Food Bank has been present in Lubbock for 41 years, it was established in 1983, the year that I was born. The service provides meals to the community in need of food. Residents are able to go online, fill out voucher, and then set up a time along with date to drive up to receive the box. It is a non profit organization that receives funding through donation and distribution companies monthly.

During this community service experience, I learned how the food bank works. I enjoyed the opportunity to help others and bond with classmates during the process. My classmates that were in my group were all so positive and made it a fun experience. There was even a moment when the staff kind of relaxed and let her hair down a little bit.
