

Since I was young, I have been inspired by the incredible care and support provided by nurses to my family and loved ones during challenging times. I am determined to positively impact other people's lives, just as they did for us. I aspire to become a nurse because of my passion for helping others and making a positive difference in their lives during their most vulnerable moments. The dynamic nature of the profession appeals to me, as it allows me to continually learn, grow, and advocate for those in need.
