

I chose to become a nurse because my labor and delivery experience with my children inspired me to provide great care for others.