

Helping people and having a positive impact has always been one of my ways that I have purpose. I feel achievement in having good relationships and truly making a difference. Through nursing I am not just able to do that, but also carry my love of knowing the ins and outs of health science and the human body. This is why I am excited and interested to become a nurse!