

Naomi Silva

1/4/25

I want to be a nurse because I believe caring for others is a calling placed on my heart by God. Nursing allows me to live out my faith through service, compassion, and humility, especially when patients are experiencing pain, fear, or uncertainty. I am driven by the desire to be the hands and feet of Christ- offering comfort, dignity, and hope while caring for the whole person: body, mind, and spirit. Through nursing, I can serve others with love, advocate for those who cannot advocate for themselves, and reflect God's grace in moments that matter most.