CSON Spring'26

My name is Melinda Garza; the reason I have decided to pursue my nursing degree is because. Nurses can make a big difference when it comes to caring for the ill. I desire to be at the bedside of those who are in their darkest moments while also trying to be the light during a patient's most vulnerable moment. Medicine will always evolve throughout the years ahead. Growth of medicine will enable us to continue to develop knowledge by gaining new skills on how to perform patient care. I strongly believe that it is ideal and essential for a nurse to deliver compassionate care, assistance, and edification for patients who need any further support. It is my best interest to be able to extend my ability to learn hands on, while also developing the best critical thinking skills needed for a lifelong profession. Having the opportunity to become a nurse is such a blessing. As a registered nurse, my heart would be filled with joy knowing that I can comfort people to help form a career that is firm and genuinely worthwhile.
