Introduction

I enjoy working with any age group, but most of my works are with high school students and young adults to explore their career path and ways to equip for the job that fit them. As an IT professional and a homeschool parent for 16 yrs, I enjoy finding innovative, cost effective and quality solutions for my clients. The educational landscape is going through rapid transformations, there's many path to equipping for a future career. If you do not want to pay high college price tag, deal with complex college application but still want your student to have a college education, I am the right consultant for you!

I would say my husband and I are very entrepreneur minded, as a family (with our children), in 2016 we created, product and sold 10,000 copies of the Lipless! Hilarious Mouth Game. I have own and operated a Lego Robotic training classes. My husband also own and operated a Engineering Consulting Firm for over 20 yrs. I am knowledgeable and have resources in startup or how to run and operate a small business.
