Introduction

The Biblical Basis For Work

Emily, the work we do, the career we pursue, and how we nurture and develop the gifts and talents we possess are often vital interests to God. Since we spend more time in our work than in almost any other endeavor, it must come under the Lordship of Christ.

1 Corinthians 4:2 says, "Moreover, it is required in a steward that a man be found faithful." Stewardship is the wise and prudent management of resources that have been entrusted to us. Biblical stewardship includes using well the work-related gifts, skills, and strengths entrusted to us by God.

The Career Direct® Guidance System is based on six foundational principles.

Principle 1: The Origin of Work is God. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Genesis 1:1 NIV). Part of being "in His image" means that we are workers, like God Himself. Most major figures mentioned in the Bible were known for their work and vocations.

Principle 2: All work has meaning and dignity. Colossians 3:17 says, "Whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him" (NIV). Socially, the Reformation struck at society's dualistic view of work. Just as they saw the church comprised of all people, not just the clergy, so the reformer saw all work – sacred and secular – both intellectual and manual as a way of serving God.

Principle 3: God has a plan for each person's life. "For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you a hope for a future" (Jeremiah 29:11 NIV). The entire Career Direct Guidance System is rooted in the belief that we are not created randomly. "We are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do" (Ephesians 2:10 NIV).

Principle 4: Our work is a stage for ministry and witness. We need to understand the vital fact that our work is a platform for ministry. Matthew 28:19 says, "Therefore go and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit" (NIV). Matthew 5:16 says, "Let your light shine before men, that they may see your good deeds and praise your Father in heaven" (NIV).

Principle 5: Christians are to be excellent in their work in order to glorify God. God wants us to rise above mediocrity in our vocation. Excellence comes from development of our God-given talents. Psalms 16:3 refers "to the saints that are in the earth, and to the excellent, in whom is all my delight" (KJV). God will use our excellence to His glory. Proverbs 22:29 says, "Do you see a man skilled in his work? He will serve before kings; he will not serve before obscure men" (NIV). No matter what we are doing, we want to learn and train ourselves to be the best that we can be for God and His kingdom.

Principle 6: God is the final authority on our work, so we need to dedicate our work to God and depend on Him to give us the strength and resources to do each job. Matthew 6:19-21 warns us, "Do not store up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy, and where thieves break in and steal. But store up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where moth and rust do not destroy, and where thieves do not break in and steal. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also" (NIV).

At Crown Financial Ministries, we believe that identifying your strengths, natural abilities, and values can help you discover God's path for your life. We believe that the Career Direct Guidance System can be an invaluable resource in helping you do this.

Using this report for Career Planning

Emily, the underlying principle for using this report is that people who match their work with their personalities, interests, skills and values generally enjoy and succeed in their work. Thus, your feedback in the four areas shown below will provide valuable information for your career planning. All of these areas should be considered before making your career decisions.

Your results will not spell out one specific occupation for you. Rather, you will be given key information that will help you understand your unique makeup and the type of work that would be a good match for you. The general approach is much better, because usually there will be several similar occupations that match a person's interests and talents. By using the Career Direct® Next Steps segment of the guidance system, you will be able to refine your options into a good choice for a career field. This includes the Next Steps section (Section 5), in particular Job Detail Links (O*Net) and the Action Plan, and Section 6 (Resources). Choose those that are appropriate for you. The process of using your talents and interests to make career decisions that also align with your personality and values will serve you well both now and in your future career management.

GETTING THE MOST FROM YOUR REPORT

There is a lot of information in this report, so you will want to read it through several times. It also can be very beneficial to have someone, such as a friend, spouse, or mentor, read through your report with you. Usually someone who knows you well, yet is different from you in personality can be especially helpful in picking up on concepts you might miss. If you decide to enlist a Career Direct Consultant for more specific help with your career planning, this report would be especially helpful in providing insights into your unique career potential. As mentioned earlier, the most important step you can take to gain full benefit from this report is to meet with a Consultant and to work through the Action Plan in your CAREER DIRECT GUIDANCE SYSTEM.

Career Direct® Complete Guidance System Report

ORGANIZATION OF THE REPORT

The report is organized into four major areas: Personality, General Interests, Skills, and Values. Each of these areas provides key insights into your unique makeup. Definitions of all groups in the report may be found in the Job Sampler that is contained in your CAREER DIRECT GUIDANCE SYSTEM.

1. Personality. The report begins with the personality section, in which you will find an analysis of six personality factors in your Personality Highlights, your Typical Strengths and Non-Strengths, and your Career Environment based on your unique personality profile.
2. General Interests. In this section you will see a ranking of your interests in 21 General Interests Career Groups and descriptions of your highest career groups. These broad career groupings are derived from the Vocational Interests section of the Assessment. Your scores reflect your level of interest in each of the 21 Career Groups. There also is a chart that lists the components that make up your top eight interests: the Activities, Occupations, and Subject Groups.
3. Skills and Abilities. Here you will see a ranking of your skills in 14 areas and descriptions of your strongest skills and abilities.
4. Values. This section has three parts: Work Environment, Work Expectations, and Life Values. Your top four priorities in each area will be highlighted.

Understanding The Scales And Scores

The scales for all of the sections are based on standardized scores that were derived from the responses of a large population of people who are successfully employed in various occupations. The scales provide a way for you to visually compare your scores to the scores of other typical workers. The scales also make it easy to spot trends. A sample of the scales used are shown below.

On the example split bar graph above, different ranges of personality are displayed. The range of standard scores on the graph is from +30 (left) to 0 (mid) to +30 (right) (60 point range) and the average score is 0 (mid range). For each factor, roughly one third of the population will score to the right (+6 to +30), one third will score mid-range (+5 left to 0 to +5 right), and one third to the left (+6 to +30). Below is an example of the scales and scores that is used for both the Interests and Skills and Abilities sections.

The sample graph above shows low interest (left), moderate interest (mid-range), and high interest (right) ranges. (This specific example shows a high interest in the Activity Interest of Animal Care). These scores do not indicate achievement or "good" or "bad" scores. They represent your relative standing, based on your responses, with other persons in the adult or youth categories.

Part 1: Personality

Concept of Personality

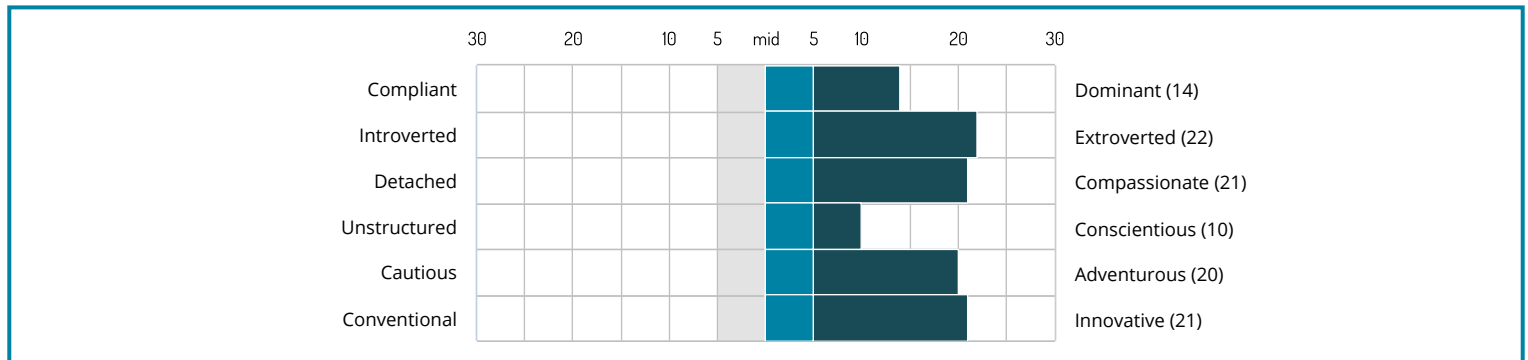

Emily, in this section, the term personality describes the way a person is naturally motivated to act. For example, some people are naturally motivated to be very organized and precise, and some are more spontaneous and casual. Likewise, some are risk takers, and some are naturally cautious.

Experience and observation confirm that there is no best personality style. All styles are valid. All are needed in society and in the workplace. All have strengths and non-strengths.

It is very important to consider your personality style when making career decisions. The goal is to identify occupations that are a good match for your natural tendencies, as well as your interests, skills and values. Just as coaches need athletes of varying size and speed to play different positions, employers need a variety of personality styles to build successful teams.

1.1 Six Factors of Personality

This survey covers six major factors of your unique personality:

Again when it comes to personality, it is not better to be one or the other (e.g. Extroverted or Introverted). One must use the strengths associated with your unique personality.

These factors were derived through extensive research, and they are consistent with other established measurements of normal personality traits.

Each factor is associated with a range of behaviors. For example, those who score in the extroverted direction will naturally have a totally different response toward meeting strangers than those who score in the introverted direction. Those who fall in the mid-range typically exhibit a mix of behaviors. As you read this section, keep in mind that all points on the scale have strengths and non-strengths.

CONFIRMING YOUR PERSONALITY FEEDBACK

This section of your report, as well as the rest of the report, has been developed from the responses you provided and reflects profiles that are typical of people who scored like you. The reports are usually quite accurate, but every insight may not apply to you, so you will need to confirm the information presented. Consider the report based on your knowledge of yourself, and have the other person you ask to assist you to check your feedback also. Concentrate on the portions that accurately describe you.

1.2 YOUR PERSONALITY FACTORS AND SUB-FACTORS

Emily, the next three pages list your six personality factors. They are listed in order from most extreme to least extreme.

1. Extroverted

outgoing and a natural people person who likes meeting strangers; enthusiastic and good at networking

Career Implications

Based on your score on the INTROVERTED/EXTROVERTED factor, you will be best suited for people-oriented occupations. Look for a work environment that will allow you to relate to people in a friendly way and provide you the opportunity to:

- ✓ Talk/explain
- ✓ Promote
- ✓ Encourage
- ✓ Perform
- ✓ Network
- ✓ Use humor

Your score on the INTROVERTED/EXTROVERTED scale is typical of those who seek frequent interaction with people and have strong verbal skills. Your high energy level probably is quite obvious from your gestures, enthusiastic conversation, and frequent smiles as you communicate with others. You are challenged by opportunities to be persuasive and convincing, and you make a positive impression on large groups.

As a people person, you probably look forward with great excitement to the networking opportunities that come with events such as conventions, reunions, meetings, parties, and similar social activities.

Another area of strength is your spontaneous and uninhibited style. You are not bashful and you likely have a knack for getting more reserved people involved in group activities. You probably are energized by the opportunity to speak or perform before an audience.

Emily, keep in mind that a strength overdone becomes a weakness. Your verbal strengths are a real asset, but there is wisdom in knowing when to be quiet and listen. More awareness of how others are receiving your conversation will help you be more considerate of their interests and conversation needs. For maximum effectiveness consider others around you and adapt your behavior to fit the situation.

2. Compassionate

caring, sensitive, and a good listener; patient, loyal, and good at supporting and encouraging others

Career Implications

With your score on the DETACHED/COMPASSIONATE factor, look for occupations that will allow you to support people in a friendly environment and try to steer clear of those that require you to confront others or deal with strife or rejection on a regular basis. In your ideal work environment look for jobs that include:

- ✓ Kindness
- ✓ Tolerance
- ✓ A high level of trust
- ✓ Stability
- ✓ Harmony
- ✓ The opportunity to help others

Your score on the DETACHED/COMPASSIONATE scale indicates that you are a person of compassion and understanding. Your sensitivity enables you to be attuned to the hurts and struggles of those around you. As a patient, nonjudgmental listener, you can have a very profound influence on others, especially in one-on-one situations.

Because people sense your sincere concern and caring attitude, they will naturally want to share with you. At these times you will find it natural to encourage and counsel with them.

Your agreeable personality will make it easy for you to get along in almost any setting, as long as there is harmony. Conflict can be stressful for you, so you will want to check carefully any organizations and work teams you are considering before you join them.

3. Innovative very creative; like to generate and express new ideas and seek mental challenges

Career Implications

Considering your score on the CONVENTIONAL/INNOVATIVE factor, look for opportunities in your work for:

- ✓ Freedom to be creative
- ✓ Intellectual challenge
- ✓ Problem solving
- ✓ Time to think
- ✓ Abstract thinking
- ✓ Artistic expression

Emily, your score on the CONVENTIONAL/INNOVATIVE scale indicates that you are a very creative person. You excel at generating new solutions and ideas, even though they may sound a bit unusual to others. You may catch yourself daydreaming or playfully considering an idea from various angles. You may express your creativity in a variety of ways, including logical problem solving, working with your hands, or more artistic ventures, such as writing, music, drama, or visual arts.

You also may have a bent for being clever and quick minded. It may be natural for you to seek mental challenges. You enjoy thinking, almost as an entertainment, and you find that it is easy for your mind to analyze subjects both in depth and breadth.

While creativity and imagination are strong assets in many situations, they can be overdone if practical steps are not taken to implement new ideas. You may struggle with keeping focus and with follow-through on projects you start. You may be forgetful of daily, practical matters. Keeping a list, imposing the discipline of deadlines, and a strong commitment to accountability may improve your effectiveness.

4. Adventurous

venturesome, ambitious, and competitive and are attracted by a challenge

Career Implications

With your score on the CAUTIOUS/ADVENTUROUS factor, your work should include the opportunity to:

- ✓ Pioneer
- ✓ Take risks
- ✓ Compete
- ✓ Achieve high goals
- ✓ Be adventurous
- ✓ Start new projects

Your score on the CAUTIOUS/ADVENTUROUS scale indicates that you thrive on new challenges. You may feel quite comfortable undertaking activities which entail some risk. Your pioneering spirit causes you to move ahead into new areas with little hesitation.

One of your key strengths is your high level of courage and initiative. Achievement is also very important to you. You probably find yourself setting lofty goals and then driving yourself to succeed. With high ambition and a very competitive spirit, you may find it natural to press for results you can see and measure. You probably expect to win at every challenge you undertake.

The weaknesses that could be present are generally a result of overdoing the associated strengths of this dimension. For instance, you could become so competitive that you step on or manipulate others in order to win and achieve what is important to you.

Also, your natural confidence in your ability to succeed might lead you to think you can be right on everything. Having advisors who will disagree and give the other side of issues will help you accurately evaluate decisions. Finally, you will be more effective by balancing your natural boldness with a measure of caution.

5. Dominant bold, self-reliant, results oriented and naturally want to take the lead

Career Implications

To satisfy your drive in the COMPLIANT/DOMINANT factor, look for opportunities to:

- ✓ Be in charge
- ✓ Plan for the future
- ✓ Speak directly
- ✓ Push new ideas
- ✓ Influence others
- ✓ Make decisions

Emily, your score on the COMPLIANT/DOMINANT scale indicates that you are naturally motivated to be in control of your environment. This drive for dominance is probably expressed in many ways in your life. Whether it's driving the car, planning a vacation, or setting priorities at work, you naturally trust yourself more than anyone else and want to be in charge. You probably have noticed that you tend to avoid situations in which you are restricted by someone else's agenda.

Your confident, decisive nature, makes you well suited for leadership roles. You have a natural desire to influence others, and this can contribute to your success in politics, sales, and similar occupations. Most people who score high in DOMINANCE tend to operate from a "big picture" perspective. This gives you a unique ability to anticipate changes and conceptualize new ideas for operating in the future. This "visionary" gift is one of your key strengths.

You may have a strong drive for independence and probably have your own ideas about how things should be done. It's natural for you to speak out about your ideas and opinions.

There are some typical weaknesses shared by those who have a take-charge nature. Because of your desire to be in control, you may find yourself working on being involved in areas of work without having sufficient expertise or facts. Also, keep in mind that you may tend to discount or overlook the amount of detail work needed to bring your big-picture ideas to fruition. In general, a more cautious approach and listening to the sound advice of someone opposite from you in personality would be helpful.

6. Conscientious

accurate, organized, and prepared; naturally follow rules since you like structure and predictability

Career Implications

With your high score on the UNSTRUCTURED/CONSCIENTIOUS factor, you will want to be sure the organizations you join offer a quality product and provide services that are practical and ethical. Also, to use your strengths in your work, consider positions that require you to be

- ✓ Well-organized
- ✓ Orderly
- ✓ Detailed
- ✓ Productive
- ✓ Exact
- ✓ Systematic

Your score on the UNSTRUCTURED/CONSCIENTIOUS scale indicates that you are very committed to being accurate, organized, and productive in your life. You have a strong drive to be precise, so it's natural for you to want to control the quality of your work by maintaining high standards. Your concern for integrity is closely related to your desire to be conscientious and is a key strength. It's very important to you to do what is right, fair, and upholds established procedures.

Emily, with your high degree of discipline you find it easy to follow the rules. In fact, you may prefer environments that are structured because of the predictability and consistency they offer.

You also are determined to do an excellent job of everything you undertake. You approach your assignments seriously and keep your focus on working out logical, practical solutions. Your desire to be economical will be an asset to your family and employer.

Those who are highly conscientious are prime candidates for perfectionism so, remember, everything does not have to be done to a perfect standard.

At times you may find yourself procrastinating with decisions for fear of making a wrong choice. You also may delay, waiting for the perfect opportunity. Work at being more flexible, knowing that sometimes it is necessary to start action before all the particulars are known.

1.3 Typical Strengths

Emily, shown below are strengths that are typical of people who score like you. Look for occupations that will allow you to highlight these strong points. The more you are able to use these strengths at work, the more likely your success and satisfaction. As mentioned earlier, you will need to check with someone who knows you well to confirm whether all items apply to you.

- Leadership oriented; naturally likes to influence others and be in charge.
- Straightforward and direct; bold in adversity.
- Energetic, positive, and enthusiastic; likes involvement in many activities.
- Outgoing, good mixer; energized by meeting new people.
- Strong verbal skills, persuasive, and motivating; can inspire an audience.

- Compassionate and sympathetic toward others.

- Quick minded; able to grasp abstract concepts.
- Clever in crafting solutions and responses to problems.
- Creative, imaginative, and original; good at coming up with new ideas.

1.4 Typical Non-Strengths

Shown below are non-strengths that are typical of people who score like you. Improvement in these areas will enhance your performance. On the other hand, try to minimize your exposure in areas that are not your strong points. As mentioned earlier, you will need to check with someone who knows you well to confirm whether all items apply to you.

- Can be too pushy in trying to get results.
- Forgets that not everyone is comfortable with direct communications.
- Can be too optimistic about outcomes and people.
- May have a problem with time management and keeping conversations focused.
- May dominate conversations; not always sensitive to the needs of listeners.

- Can be too trusting, allowing others to take advantage of the situation.
- Can be stressed by conflict and does not like confrontation.
- Slow to change; can be inflexible.
- Can have unreasonable expectations for self and others.
- Tends to be overly focused on personal goals and may sacrifice family for success.
- May take unnecessary risks.
- May have an attitude of superiority.
- Easily bored with established procedures.

1.5 Critical Life Issues

This section provides insights that may be helpful in choosing a career. Your stress level, risk of debt, and handling of money can all be factors that influence your career choices. Being aware of these areas can help in decision making.

Stress

Your score on the STRESS scale indicates that you are generally quite content and have adapted effective ways of coping with the stresses of life. You typically take things in stride and appear to be the kind of person who remains calm and even-tempered in demanding situations. This may indicate your typical behavior or may indicate that you have no major stressors in your life at present. Occasionally, very low scores can indicate a tendency to deny difficulties. Discussing your results with a family member or trusted friend can help you determine your particular situation.

Indebtedness

Your scores on the INDEBTEDNESS factor indicate that you have debt habits similar to the average person in our society. Our experience indicates that most people can pay off all consumer debt (everything but the mortgage) in less than five years, if they will make a commitment to do so.

Financial Management

Your scores indicate you may be having a struggle trying to live within your income and to set aside reserves for the contingencies and emergencies that arise in every family.

Thousands of people have been able to gain control of their finances by using Crown Financial Ministries materials.

Five Major General Interests Areas

Emily, discovering your general interests is a critical step in the career planning process for one simple reason; people tend to excel when they are interested in the work they do! What may appear as a tedious task to one person may be easy and enjoyable to another who is naturally motivated toward that type of work. In general, work that interests you will be fun even when it involves tasks that, under other circumstances, would be difficult or boring.

Because of the very nature of your interests, your leisure pursuits may have influenced your General Interest scores. This means you will have to use some discretion when interpreting your General Interest section of the report.

For instance, if you enjoy physical fitness and sports, "Sports and Fitness" may surface as a high Career Group. However, since so few individuals become professional athletes, recognize the high score for what it likely is: something you will do for fun and leisure but not for a career.

On the other hand, Emily, the more you can relate your work to areas that excite you, the more likely you are to be successful. One person who loved shooting a bow and arrow became the top sales person for a leading archery company by pursuing strong interests in archery and the outdoors. Likewise, many people develop successful businesses from their hobbies. Keep in mind, the more you enjoy what you are doing, the more likely you will be satisfied with your work, and the lower your work stress will be.

There are a number of ways to categorize career interest. This report uses 21 Career Interest Groups arrayed within five major Career Interest Areas. Those five major Career Interest Areas are displayed in the circle graph below, denoting how your Top 8 Career Interest Groups fall within them. If you have fewer than five major Career Interest Areas, it means that none of your top 8 Career Interest Groups fall within that area. More details on the breakdown within those five major areas can be found on the following pages.

Major Interest Areas and Career Groups

Five Major General Interests Areas

In the graphs below, if you have any areas showing 0%, it is because none of your Top 8 Career Interest Groups fall within those Major Interest Areas. However, you will still have interest data showing there.

2.1 Top Eight Career Groups

Three components, Activities, Occupations, and Educational Subjects, determine your Career Group group scores. These interests may be either work or leisure related, or they may be leisure or hobby avocations that you use as the basis for a career. Since the Career Groups are made up of several parts, you may find that one Activity group may be very important to you, but other components of the group may not be important to you. Consequently, your top interest is not high on the list of Career Groups. For example, you may enjoy math but not care for finance, so your score on the Career Groups, Computational/Financial, is not high.

Subject Groups

2.3 Potential Occupations In Your Top Groups

Emily, your top eight Career Groups described on the previous pages provide general definitions for broad groups of occupations in which you have the highest level of interest. Some of the descriptions and occupations in the groups may not appeal to you. That's fine; just make note of what you don't like and use it as a criterion to narrow your career interest. Of course, the information in the other sections of this report and the accompanying Career Direct® Next Steps and Career Direct® Resources sections will help you in this process.

TAKE NOTE OF YOUR LOWEST INTEREST GROUPS

It's important for you to take note of your four lowest interest groups. They are listed in the chart below. Areas of low scores can reveal some insights about your career interests.

Manufacture products, coordinate complex operations, provide transportation and distribution services.

Participate in activities are action-packed and might be considered daring and risky by the average person.

Raise crops, livestock, install and maintain landscaping, study and protect the environment.

Install, repair, work with hand tools, build, operate machines, diagnose mechanical problems.

Note: Vocational/General Interests are not the same as skills. They reflect your motivation toward a career field but not your ability to work in that field. Most people have abilities that support their interests. If not, they usually try to develop their skills further or look at a secondary career area. For instance, someone who loves sports but does not have the skills to pursue an athletic career may decide to become an athletic trainer or a sports referee.

Skills Are a Key Criteria for Choosing an Occupation

Emily, an understanding of your skills will be important as you evaluate potential occupations. It is very critical that you match your work to career fields that utilize your best skills in order to gain the personal joy of doing something that comes naturally.

There are two key reasons for building on your natural strengths. First, doing so will help you to maximize your potential. Working in your natural strengths starts you at a higher baseline, helps you learn faster, and achieves more from the same amount of effort. For example, some people could practice singing for years but never have the ability to be successful as a singer because they simply lack the natural skills to excel.

Second, working in your natural strengths is just more fun. It's true that people experience less job stress when they are using skills with which they naturally excel. It also seems logical that you enjoy using these skills because they have been recognized, valued, and rewarded by others in the past. Your confidence will continue to grow as you use your natural skills, thus leading to even more success and joy in the future.

The bottom line is that you are most likely to excel when you use the skills that come naturally and bring joy in their use. Although you do need to be mindful of your weaknesses, it is generally unproductive to make them the primary focus for your work. In the area of skills, try to swim with the current, not against it.

Skills and Abilities

Note: This section's skill scores are from your self-assessment, not an achievement or an aptitude test. Research indicates that self-assessment can give an accurate overview of a person's skills.

3.1 Skills and Abilities: Top 4 Areas

Socializing comes easily to you due to your relatability and genuine interest in others (both familiar and new), which undergirds your ability to connect with a variety of people. Because of this natural capacity, you will probably do well in careers where you interact with people on a regular basis and can capitalize on your ability to communicate effectively by pursuing opportunities for you to counsel, teach, or explain as part of your work. To maximize the use of these skills, be sure your work involves serving others as an element of your regular duties.

It is likely that you excel when coordinating the activities of others. You delegate tasks, motivate others to work collaboratively, and successfully meet deadlines because people readily respond to your guidance. You are adept at project management and can anticipate and then navigate each stage of work needed to complete a complex task. You manage a high degree of urgency with your ability to be flexible and make adjustments in the moment. By quickly assessing the situational options, you adapt to fast-paced, changing environments. To maximize the use of these skills, you should consider occupations that involve launching a business, supervising others, and/or overseeing operations.

You naturally perceive how detailed procedures and materials should be kept accurately and in good order to maximize efficiency. You are methodical, neat, and systematic in your approach to a task and you typically excel at administrative duties that involve sorting and retrieving information and supplies in an orderly fashion to run the day-to-day operations of an office or customer-facing business. Planning and scheduling, along with performing routine tasks, repetitive fine-motor skills, and quality control, are activities that you do seamlessly while multitasking. Maximize your strengths by pursuing careers that involve accurate data/inventory management, quick basic math, clear communication, administrative support or customer service, and proficiency in the use of office machines or specialized tools.

If you excel in leadership, you likely have an elevated sense of initiative fueled by concern for or connection to others. You may be visionary or idealistic and willing to assert your influence over others. You could be positioned at the head of a group, or leading from among and working alongside the individuals you serve. Either way, you are respected for your integrity and dependability. Pursue opportunities that empower you to teach and mentor as a component of relationship building.

3.2 Skills and Abilities: Evaluate Your Skills

Carefully examine your highest-ranked skills and analyze the relationship among them. How much overlap is there? Is there a common theme to your skills? Do any of your skills relate more to areas that you would use as a hobby than as a basis for your occupation? If so, are there ways that these hobby skills could transfer to your work? The Action Plan that accompanies your report will guide you through these and other questions. Completing this analysis will be key to gaining full benefit from your report.

DEVELOP YOUR SKILLS

Exploiting your natural strengths does not in any way mean that training, education, hard work, and dedication are not required to further develop your skills. On the contrary, most successful people become so by working diligently at what they do. Think of the professional golfer who develops natural athletic skills by hitting hundreds of balls every day. Likewise, consider a pianist who spends hours practicing in order to fully develop natural music skills.

MINIMIZE YOUR EXPOSURE OF YOUR LOW-SCORING SKILLS

Emily, as with interests, please take note of the skill areas in which you scored the lowest. They are the ones listed at the bottom of the chart on the previous page. Areas with low scores can reveal some insights about your career interest. It could be that these are not natural strengths, or perhaps you never have had the opportunity to develop them. In either case, it would be best not to pursue occupations that require heavy use of your low-scoring skills, unless you pursue more training first.

YOUR LOWEST FOUR SKILL AREAS

Values Are Important To Career Decisions

Values Are Important To Career Decisions

Emily, you can be in a career field that is a good match for your vocational interests, skills, and personality strengths and still experience job dissatisfaction and stress if your work does not match your values. For example, many people value working outdoors and will never feel totally comfortable working in the confines of a building. Others may need to know that they are helping people directly in their work and will not be satisfied working alone or with machines.

Many people think that they can be happy doing most anything if it makes them successful in the material sense. All too often, they find themselves unfulfilled and burned out after only a few years into their careers. Using values as a criteria for career choices can preclude much of the disappointment and career stress present in today's workplace. As you review your priorities to see if you are being consistent, compare them to the way you are actually operating. This three-part section on values is designed to help you define the priorities and values that will guide your life and work.

Expect your values to change; these are your priorities and you can change them any time you want. Most people will find that they do change some of their priorities as they age and as their family situations change. It is a good idea to save this report for future reference. A periodic review will enable you to make updates and see how well you are sticking with your priorities.

4.1 Values: Work Environment

Different people prefer or even require different kinds of environments in their workplace in order to function at their best. The kind of conditions they want when they go to work, such as in their physical surroundings, their schedules, or the workplace atmosphere, all contribute to their work environment. For example, some people can only thrive when their surroundings are very well-organized, while others may not be bothered by some degree of disorganization.

It is important for you to be able to identify the kind of environment you desire, or even need, in order to function to your greatest potential. Understanding this can help you as you evaluate various career opportunities that come your way.

YOUR PRIORITIES FOR THE 12 VALUES THAT RELATE TO WORK ENVIRONMENT

CONSIDER THE TOP 4 AS IMPORTANT CRITERIA FOR EVALUATING POTENTIAL OCCUPATIONS AND POSITIONS

1. Equality

You enjoy working in a career in which people are treated fairly without regard to race, gender, creed, religion, or national origin. Look for career opportunities in which workers are paid equally at the same competency level and all work opportunities are pursued without prejudice.

2. Stability

You enjoy working in an environment of consistency, an established routine, and no surprises. You value regular hours, steady salary, and a schedule that does not change.

3. Well-Organized

You value a highly structured and organized work environment. Seek careers in which the work environment promotes order, neatness, and systematic processes.

4. Challenge

You need the opportunity to solve tough problems and work make-or-break issues. Look for difficult assignments and obstacles to overcome. Controversy is not a problem, because you enjoy restoring order where there was chaos.

4.2 Values: Work Outcome

Although most people have a number of expected rewards from their work, it is important to decide what is most important. For instance, more education and higher income typically go together, but beyond a certain level continuing education may not correlate with a higher income. Likewise, having a leadership position does not always enhance one's security. Whether we think about it or not, most of us have to make tough choices in this area.

It's very important that you recognize that your priorities are an individual matter. Allowing someone else to exert too much influence over work values is one of the biggest mistakes people make in choosing a career field. This is your opportunity to think through this critical area and make sure you know what is really important to you.

YOUR PRIORITIES FOR THE 8 OUTCOME VALUES THAT YOU EXPECT FROM YOUR WORK

THESE OUTCOMES ARE THE MOST IMPORTANT TO YOU

1. Career Progression

You are interested in occupations that offer a well-defined progression of career positions. You enjoy moving up in the organization by increasing your responsibility and authority at work. Look for job settings that offer a chance to grow and develop as a professional.

2. Leadership

You feel comfortable in positions that include responsibility for people and resources. You are comfortable taking charge, telling others what to do, and making decisions for the group. Your work should include the opportunity to lead a team toward common goals.

3. Security

You prefer to have the assurance that you have a job that will be around for a long period of time. Some career opportunities still have a measure of security; however, keep in mind that they are on the decline. Job security is now much more dependent on your ability to continually develop your skills to meet the changing workplace.

4. Continuing Education

You enjoy growing and developing as a professional in your career field. Having the opportunity to take development courses, workshops, or formal education is important to you. Look for job opportunities that promote personal growth through continued education of some kind.

4.3 Values: Life Values

This area is important to career planning because many people find it difficult to align the way they live and work with their life values. The fast pace of life, the strains of financial overcommitment, and the complexity of life in this time cause many to feel like it's all they can do just to hang on each day.

Experience shows, however, that people who thoughtfully decide on a life purpose and then make career choices that contribute to that goal have a unique peace and sense of fulfillment about their work. Your top four items that relate to life purpose are listed below.

YOU PRIORITIZED 9 VALUES THAT RELATE TO LIFE PURPOSE

LISTED BELOW ARE YOUR TOP 4 LIFE PRIORITIES

1. Faith

You have indicated that your life mission involves serving God in everything you do. It will be very important for you to see how your work is contributing to that goal. Remember that all occupations offer the opportunity to serve Him. Kindness and a commitment to excellence can be an attractive light for others in the workplace.

2. Family

Your family has a high value for you and you want to be able to care for them whenever they need you. You consider it important to be available and involved in their activities. Having a lot of quality time with your family is important to you and should be a consideration to the occupational choices you make.

3. Aesthetics

Artistic expression and creativeness are high priorities in your life. You enjoy being involved in activities that make life more beautiful, in which you can use your emotional sensitivity, and can freely express your creative views and talents.

4. Money

You believe accumulating wealth is an essential part of your happiness. You probably value a lifestyle in which you are able to have frequent vacations, live in a nice home, and drive nice automobiles, or perhaps you want to be a very generous provider to others and to charitable causes you support.

FIND THE RIGHT BALANCE IN YOUR VALUES

No one is perfect; Superman and Wonder Woman do not exist, and you will never be able to do everything to the level you would like. Everyone must work out a balance in life. By considering your priorities, you will be able to find a comfortable balance in the use of your time, energy, and financial resources. Referring to your priority lists will help you to meet your stated life purpose values.

EXPECT YOUR VALUES TO CHANGE

These are your priorities and you can change them any time you want. Most people will find that they do change some of their priorities as they age and their family situations change. It is a good idea to save this report for future reference. A periodic review will enable you to make update and see how well you are sticking with your priorities.

WHAT DO I DO NOW?

Compare the stages of your career development to driving cross-country on a family vacation. There are two distinct stages. Stage one consists of conducting all the necessary research and planning to make the vacation enjoyable. Stage two consists of actually getting into the car, backing out of the driveway, and starting out.

Reading through your CAREER DIRECT report is comparable to studying a road atlas in the first stage of planning the trip. It offers you a broad overview of the general directions to your destination, along with some alternative routes to get you there. However, just reading the report will not solve your career dilemma any more than simply reading a road map will actually get you to your vacation destination.

You now find yourself at stage two. It is time for you to climb into the driver's seat and begin your career journey. Your first step is to assimilate your information into plans and decisions that will get you started. To assist you in this key step, we have provided the Action Plan, a guide to interpreting and acting on what you have learned about your pattern for work. It is extremely important that you process through it completely. I will help you to match your pattern with various occupations and educational training programs.

Above all else, don't forget that the basic goal in career planning is to match your talents and interests to the requirements of your work. In doing so, you will have the highest likelihood of reaching your destination and career that fits you.
