

INTRODUCTION

Jess serves as a career consultant, a parent educator, and a coach, focusing on families with gifted, common, and special needs (Autism, ADD, Downs, Asperger, sensory issue) children. Her clients are international, hailing from the United Kingdom, United States, Canada, Taiwan and Hong Kong. She is fluent in English, Cantonese, and Mandarin. She is a workshop speaker and a trainer. For over 20 years, she has been a homeschool mom with three kids. In addition, she is proud to be serving families with children with special needs for 20 years. She is married to one and only one husband. Her hobbies include vocal performance, choir, walking her dog, and interior design.

JESS' LEARNS HER SUPERPOWERS

"When I was a teenager, I went overseas to live a different life. But I was confused about my future and didn't understand God's will. Without my knowledge, God gave me tons of super powers such as 3 languages, communication, and interpersonal skills. I praise God for His special planning in my life. The only regret I have is not discovering my super powers during my teenage years. Are you ready to find out your super powers? And learn how you can use them today? I look forward to empowering you right away."
