

Name Caroline Bedward

Languages English

Location WA,

Organization Independent

Connect with Caroline Bedward

Bio

I am thrilled to utilize the YES assessment to help your student uncover their unique design, passion, and talent. This discovery will provide valuable insights, from learning about their personality to determining how their passions and talents align with future career fields. As a homeschool parent for 16 years, fostering a love for learning in my student has always been a priority. I have found that when students understand their personality, use the right tools and curriculum, combined with knowing their passions, it drives their learning journey. This approach leads to a happier and more purposeful student experience. This is why I advocate for helping students explore their interests and career paths early on. As a certified Career Direct Consultant, I have enjoyed helping students explore their career paths using the Career Direct Assessment, which was previously limited to those 16 years and older. I am now excited about the new YES assessment, designed for students aged 12-16. This tool has abundant insight for me to provide guidance in your student's interests and career exploration. Additionally, I can offer recommendations on school subjects to focus on, better preparing them for life after high school.

Services Offered

One-on-One YES! Consultations ($170, 2 hrs discovery session; Additional consultation $60/hr) Group YES! Facilitation (Individualized pricing available)