You bring a rare blend of objectivity, adaptability, and faith-based values that will serve you well in both life and work.

Your ability to remain calm under pressure, make wise decisions, and switch seamlessly between leadership and support roles makes you incredibly versatile. You're someone who enjoys meaningful solitude but also connects easily with others when needed—a powerful balance that many strive for, but few achieve naturally.

Your career interests paint an inspiring picture: athletics, counselling, faith, law, writing, and international work. These point to a calling that's not only people-focused but also full of purpose and challenge—just the kind of environment you thrive in. You're drawn to roles that allow you to help others, continue learning, grow in leadership, and earn a strong income, all while staying rooted in your faith.

One path that beautifully ties your love for sports, your desire to help others, and your interpersonal strengths is Sport Psychology. This field would allow you to work with athletes—supporting them mentally, emotionally, and spiritually as they strive for excellence. Whether you work in schools, professional teams, or community outreach, you could make a deep impact in people's lives while staying close to a field you're passionate about.

You also show great potential in:

- Faith-based Counselling or Coaching
- Cross-Cultural Missions or NGO Work
- Public Service and Legal Advocacy
- Project Management in Ministry or Non-Profit Organizations
- Writing and Communications Roles

Your heart for faith, achievement, and helping others shines through clearly, and I have no doubt that God will continue to guide your steps as you walk this journey.

As you explore your next steps, I'd like to pray this over you:

“Father, thank You for the incredible gifts You've placed in Chante. May You guide her with clarity and confidence. Open the right doors, bring the right mentors, and give her courage to step into her calling. Let her work reflect Your light—bringing healing, excellence, and joy to those around her. In Jesus' Name, Amen.”

Chante, you are more than capable—you are called, equipped, and ready. I look forward to seeing where God leads you.
