Introduction

Hi there! I'm Kylie Viljoen, a career direct consultant with an academic background in Industrial Psychology and a deep passion for helping people flourish in what they do. I support young individuals in discovering their unique design and calling, making informed subject choices, and choosing a career path that is meaningful and fulfilling.

I also work with businesses to identify the right talent, promote employee well-being, and build healthy, effective workplaces where people can grow with purpose and passion.

My calling is to help create meaningful change—whether in an individual's life or at the heart of an organisation.
