Sophia, you have an adventurous, bold and daring spirit. You are a risk-taker but not without balancing it out with risk-awareness and thoughtful evaluation. You like the thrill of being where the action is. You prefer being outdoors but you also enjoy your private and quiet times. You have expressed strong interests in being in the military (combat medic, special forces, etc.), becoming a paramedic, or EMT. You also showed interests in being a Police officer, Detective and Forensic Investigator. These also support your adventurous spirit. You enjoy helping others and you have a calm and collected demeanor and can respond on the spot without having to have a lot of time to prepare. You are able to stay level-headed and in control not ruled by emotions but by staying objective and focused and perform with excellence. This is all very important in all of your areas of interests and these definitely fulfill our desire for adventure and challenges. After much conversation with you, your strongest trait appears to be Adventurous. Your Occupational, Activity and Subject groups verify your interests in Public Safety and National Security. I would encourage you to check out the intensity of physically being challenged in each of your interests. You have to determine how much physically you can reasonably endure. These areas at this time seem to be your greatest passions.

Your second very strong area of interest is the Performing Arts. You have expressed that you thought this might be a hobby and not a career choice. Although you may not consider the Performing Arts a career choice, it still appears that it is a very strong passion for you. You expressed interest in theater, running a sound board, lighting design, mechanics, serving on a tech team, playing guitar, singing and acting. You have shared with me that you have taught yourself how to play several instruments very well. Your mom has confirmed how well you have done at that and your singing capabilities. We explored some possibilities of sound engineering, lighting engineering and design and prop construction. These all fall under your results in the interests' groups of Performing, Drama, and Music along with Engineering/Technology, Construction, and Art/Design. Your Personality Traits and Subtraits of Unstructured, Cooperative, Flexible, Collaborative, Imaginative would work very well in these areas. This could also be a different type of adventure and challenge in being creative and having fun in entertaining audiences. Your areas of interests' also show that you have writing/communication skills, and because you enjoy being alone and quiet at times, this would give you an environment to be creative and imaginative in; maybe you could write your own play. How fun would that be? Even if you see this as a hobby, this looks like you have great potential in the Performing Arts.

Two other great strengths that you have and enjoy is Problem-Solving and Leadership skills which would work extremely well in both of these interests' areas.

At this time, these two interests' areas are very strong options for you to consider and prepare for. We will be exploring more options in the near future to see if in fact you have other options of interest. I will be looking into AI career options but for now what we have is looking very good.
