The highest level of nursing education I would like to achieve is my bachelor's degree. I love nursing and the fact that it is such a diverse profession where I am not limited to just one career choice. I want a bachelor's degree to be able to be presented with multiple opportunities outside of bedside nursing. I have been a state tested nursing assistant and licensed practical nurse for several years and I have done a lot with bedside patient care. I feel comfortable with bedside care, but I am also interested in management, starting my own business and office duties tailored to nursing responsibilities.

I am very excited to start my journey as a registered nurse. I feel like nursing is a profession that most people have a calling for. When I was younger a woman at a church, I was attending walked over to me during a ceremony. She saw tears drawing up in my eyes from the sweet sound of the music playing. I can't remember the song now, but it was a very emotional moment for me. She said to me that I have a very sweet spirit and a kind heart. She prophesized that I would be a nurse someday, she couldn't be more right. I have a passion to continue my career and expand my knowledge so that I can utilize what I know to help others.

Successful completion of a bachelor's degree program in nursing would satisfy my expectations for myself. Being a nurse is an award-winning career and I don't think I would want to have done anything else. In my opinion nursing isn't just a career but a lifestyle. The things I have learned I can take with me for the rest of my life. I will be the first registered nurse of my family and I am proud of myself and any future achievements I attain.
